For over 125 years, Gidney Fisheries has relied on the exceptional quality and flavor of North Atlantic Lobster, along with a strong work ethic that has been deeply ingrained in its tradition. Today, their focus is on growth through innovative lobster products and customized packaging solutions for both retail and food service industries.

Experience the remarkable difference with custom HPP frozen products made from North Atlantic hard-shell lobsters. Gidney lobsters ensure an unparalleled dining experience, boasting a harder shell and the fullest meat.

These premium-quality lobsters undergo processing using high-pressure processing (HPP) technology, which not only enhances food safety but also extends the shelf life while preserving the impeccable quality and freshness of the lobster meat until it reaches the table.

Gidney Fisheries remains committed to delivering lobster products that will astonish both chefs and consumers alike, thanks to their superior presentation and unforgettable flavor.

- Utilizes intense pressure instead of thermal treatments to eliminate harmful microorganisms and improve food safety.
- Preserves the natural colors, flavors, and textures of the meat, enhancing product quality and satisfaction.
- Extends the shelf life, enabling longer storage, transportation, and distribution while maintaining freshness and flavor.
